PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 41 (South Dakota) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 41 (South Dakota) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsmann, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section, and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—South Dakota was organized as a State from part of Dakota Territory and was admitted to the Union in 1889. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Census, was 652,740. The State has a land area of 76,536 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 8.5 persons per square mile as compared with an average of 8.4 in 1940. Among the States and the District of Columbia, South Dakota ranked forty-first in population and fifteenth in land area.

In 1870, the first year in which the Dakota Territory was enumerated by areas that can be grouped to give the approximate area of the State, South Dakota had a population of 11,776 (table 1). In 1950, 80 years later, its population was about 55 times as large. The rate of population growth, which was rapid in the years 1870 to 1910, slackened in the following decades. The numerical increase in the 40 years ending in 1950 was 68,852 as compared with a gain of 572,112 for the previous 40-year period. The 1950 population represented an increase of 9,779, or 1.5 percent, over the 642,961 persons enumerated in 1940.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landlords, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940. In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of South Dakota comprised 216,710 persons, or 33.2 percent of the population of the State (table 1). The urban population was living in the 25 urban places in the State and in that part of the urban fringe of Sioux City, Iowa, that extends into South Dakota. Nearly one-fourth of the urban population was living in Sioux Falls, the largest city in the State (table 2). Each of the six cities of 10,000 inhabitants or more shared in the growth of the urban population, with the rates of increase ranging from 14.0 to 82.8 percent (table 4).

The rural population of South Dakota numbered 436,030, or 66.8 percent of the population of the State (table 1). Of the rural population, 48,365 persons, or 11.1 percent, were living in the 34 places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants (table 2).

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,¹ and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprised all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

According to the 1950 urban definition, the urban population of South Dakota consisted of the 216,157 inhabitants of the 25 incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and the 553 persons living in unincorporated territory included in the South Dakota part of the urban fringe of Sioux City, Iowa. Since there were no places urban under special rule according to the old definition, the population of the incorporated places of 2,500 or more constituted the urban population under the old definition. The effect of the change in definition, therefore, is that the new definition classifies as urban the 553 persons living in the urban fringe of Sioux City, Iowa, who would have been included in the rural population under the old definition.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1870 to 1940 are shown in accordance with the old definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old definition. On this basis, the urban population rose from 40,936 in 1900 to 216,157 in 1950. The increase of 58,070 between 1940 and 1950 was the largest numerical increase in the urban population in the history of the State. The rate of gain, 36.7 percent, was the largest since the decade 1900 to 1910. The proportion of the population of the State living in urban territory more than tripled between 1900 and 1950, increasing from 10.2 to 33.1 percent.

The rural population also increased over the 50-year period, rising from 360,634 in 1900 to 436,583 in 1950. The peak in the rural population of 561,942 in 1930 was followed by declines in both the succeeding decades. Between 1940 and 1950, the rural population declined by 48,291, or 10.0 percent, as against a decrease of 77,068, or 13.7 percent, for the previous decade. The proportion of the population living in rural territory declined from 89.8 to 66.9 percent between 1900 and 1950.

Counties.—The number of counties in South Dakota was reduced in 1943 when Washington County was combined with Shannon County. Four of the counties are unorganized and are attached to other counties for judicial purposes. The 68 counties in 1950 ranged in size from Armstrong with a population of 52 to Minnehaha with a population of 70,910. Between 1940 and 1950, 21 of the counties gained population as compared with 9 in the previous decade. The largest numerical increase took place in Minnehaha County, whereas the most rapid rate of increase was experienced in Pennington County, the second largest county in the State (table 5).

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which counties are subdivided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil divisions." The minor civil divisions in South Dakota are the townships, cities, and towns.

Table 6 shows statistics on the population of each county by minor civil divisions for the last three censuses. When an incorporated place lies in two or more counties, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 in the appropriate counties, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. The unincorporated place, Pickstown, is designated by "uninc." Changes between the 1940 Census and the 1950 Census in the boundaries of the areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 996-1005, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—There were 306 incorporated places and 1 unincorporated place in South Dakota in 1950. There were 347,636 persons living in the incorporated places, 131,479 of whom were living in the 281 incorporated places of fewer than 2,500 inhabitants. The unincorporated place, Pickstown, had a population of 2,217.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census includes all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—The only urbanized area located in whole or in part in the State is the Sioux City, Iowa, Urbanized Area, which extends into South Dakota. The unincorporated territory included in that part of the urban fringe in South Dakota had a population of 553 (table 9).

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940, and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts.

An urbanized area may also be divided into central city or cities as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe.

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.
2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.
3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.
4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within 1½ miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

¹ According to the new urban definition, the urban population comprises persons residing in urban territory but not necessarily in an urban place, which is defined as an incorporated place of 2,500 or more, or an unincorporated place of 2,500 or more located outside an urbanized area. Under the old definition, incorporated places of 2,500 or more and places urban under special rule are classified as urban places. In South Dakota there were no unincorporated urban places in 1950 or places urban under special rules in 1940.

² Includes 553 persons in urban territory outside of urban places.
